

Research of photography:

My research direction was in nature poster and scenery photography, many natural work make me impressed, some of the special black and white photographs, and it is the way I need to deep research and explore, because I need to edit my photos upload to Photoshop, it is a process of making posters are particularly important, so I need to draw lessons from the ideas of many photographers, to observe how they shot in black and white photos and combining with the my idea to make a series of work.

In addition, the poster with the color contrast, background picture of grey. Photo not only need to be photographed but also need to be processes using software.

Research of natural poster:

This is a process I took away from the camera, using digital art (Photoshop). My first series was focus on detail layout, cutting, reassembling, font recognition, color screening, etc. When I got some feedback after I felt that too complex, and then I search on Pinterest, I found a lot of designers for natural poster idea is advanced. Simple, this is how I feel after seeing their work. It doesn't mean simple to make or less elemental.....they are made in ways that are more interesting and easier to understand. Then I painted many fonts on the paper and combined with simple landscape as a background, I think big fonts more lofty and can give people fresh and long-standing feel, with a bit of blur color contrast, makes the gray background with simple and dreamy feeling.
